- Testing & Certification subcommittee update
 - Updated on progress/changes needed on their Testing document
 - TR3? Proposed to revert to original page for implementation guide which is from a retailer's guide.
 - Will post to slack for a week for review and if no issues, submit for X12 review
- Directory Services subcommittee update
 - Will attempt to deliver prior to next virtual meeting
- UBL XML & Json subcommittee update
 - Business Payment Coalition
 - No update other than they are talking
 - Four Corner model paper coming soon.
 - Meanwhile, to pass on to the others I can report informally that the BPC had a very successful face-to-face meeting earlier this month near Charlotte, NC. We made good progress on our documentation we are preparing for our next release.
 - We talked about portals and reminded members that where they have existing three-corner model implementations (such as "single window" buyer/supplier portals) that simply by adding an access point to the four-corner model from the central service, all of the three-corner model participants then have access to the entire network.
 - Pulling together another one of my essays where I am bringing this to light for federal and provincial government projects that are happening in Canada.
 - Gather there are numerous X12 organizations that run their own portals. If they are interested in this four-corner-model interoperability, I encourage them to join the BPC and participate in the defining of our semantic library. That way they can better ensure that their needs for information in their private formats can be supported by the common independent format used across all access points.
