X12 Licensing Options

X12 offers a multi-tier licensing program to support X12 users, developers, and organizations. X12 is committed to enabling its Partners to focus on competing successfully within the industries they serve by ensuring they and their customers have timely access to new versions and supporting documentation.

Commercial Use License

X12's work is used extensively across many industries to benefit organizations of all types and sizes. If your organization intends to use X12's work - the content of its standards, guides, or codes - in a solution to license to your customer, a third party - then your use of X12's work is considered commercial. As such, in order to embed the X12 content in your offering for use in a production environment, you'll need to become an X12 Commercial Use Licensing Partner.

Internal Use License

X12's work is used extensively across many industries to benefit organizations of all types and sizes. If your organization intends to use X12's work - the content of its standards, guides, or codes - internally to build or use with, then your use of X12's work is considered internal. As such, in order to embed the X12 content in your solution and use the content for reference in a production environment, you'll need to become an X12 Internal Use Licensing Partner.

Developer License

For entities or people that are building or implementing solutions to handle X12 transactions or codes, a Developer License presents them with access to all of X12's downloadable or online-viewable work for development-only use. Individuals, organizations and other entities that use X12's work for software development or other non-production activities, with the expectations that they will transition to a Commercial or Internal Use license once in production; this license does not cover any production-use of X12's content.

Glass User

A Glass premium subscription provides you with a user license and permits access to view X12's work for reference online in a browser.

Code List Update Subscription

X12 maintains several code lists that are external to the X12 Standard and implementation guides, though they are referenced in X12's work. This subscription service provides you with the latest updates.

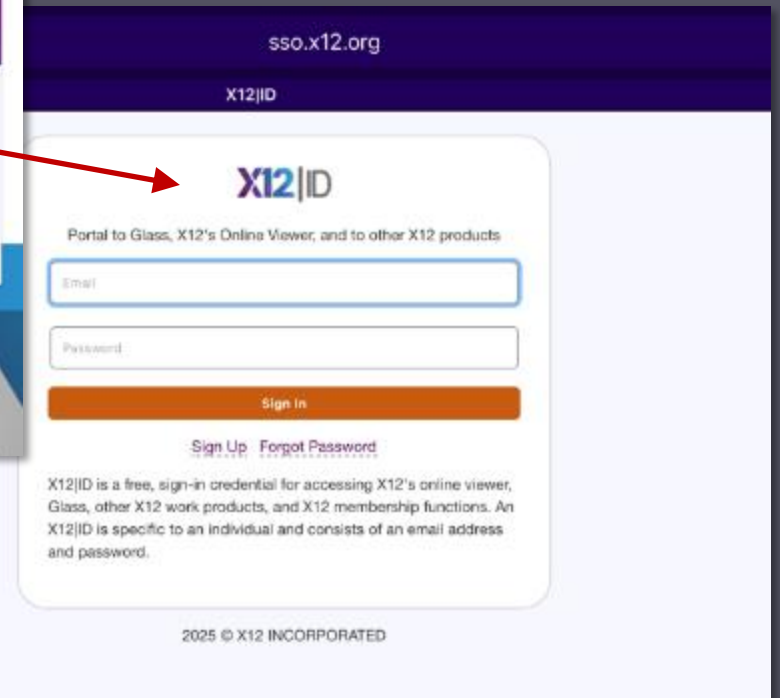

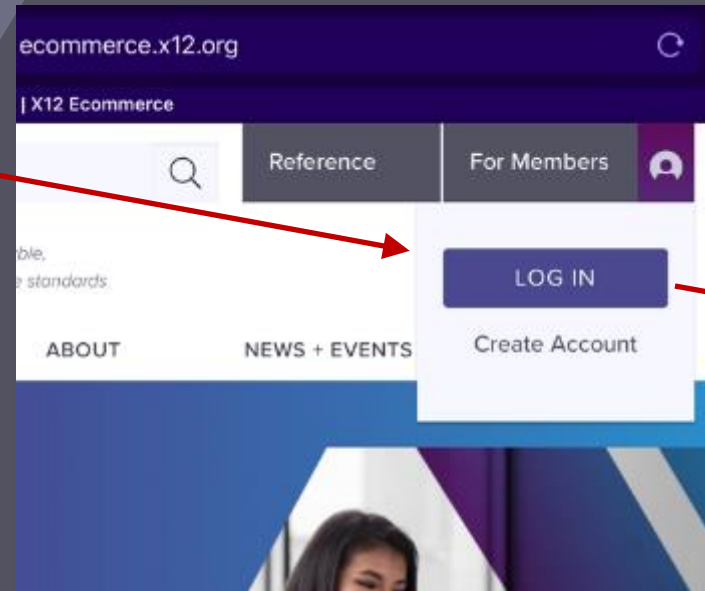

Free X12 User Account

As a registered user you gain access to Glass - X12's online viewer - and the non-premium, free resources available. Upgrade to a paid license for full-access.

The screenshot shows the 'Resources' section of the X12 website. The breadcrumb trail is 'Home / Membership & Licensing Help'. The main heading is 'Membership & Licensing Help'. On the left, there are three expandable sections: 'Membership' (expanded), 'Licensing', and 'Code Lists'. The 'Membership' section contains three links: 'How do I apply for X12 membership?', 'How do I renew my X12 membership?', and 'How do I manage my X12 membership roster and roles?'. On the right, there is a 'RESOURCES' sidebar with a list of links: 'Feedback', 'Policies and Procedures', 'Forms', 'Meeting Minutes', 'Requests for Interpretation', 'Info Center', 'X12 EDI Examples', 'Transaction Flow', 'Contact Us', and 'Membership & Licensing Help' (which is highlighted).
